

Imperial Ju-shi domes

Ju-shi means “Protector”. These domes provide protection from the elements. They are also used to grow plants in. The actual dome usually extends about 1 km below the ground level. This is so all the electrical generators and other necessary equipment isn't stored above ground. The lines with arrows define the different areas.

The dome is divided into 4 sections: ocean; main cities; mountains and farmland. At the bottom of the ocean is the huge filtration plant. This filters all the water in the ocean. The tube from the ocean draws water to the main cities. The main cities is where the vast majority of the population lives. The rest work on the farm land. Below the cities is all the generators and waste disposal equipment. The mountains are there mainly for fun. There are many fly slopes around the top. Also, the mountains stop too much rain from destroying the crops. In the farmland there are literally hundreds of fields growing everything from grains to meat. Below the farmland is the droid storage area. These droids are useful for working, planting and harvesting crops. In the plant season, these droids help plant the billions of seeds to keep everyone alive.
